

Lower Quarter Neural Progression

Columbia Rehabilitation

Proximal Sliding Dysfunction: Level 2 (position towards, move away)

Starting position:

- Lay on your side with the painful side up.
- Your neck should be resting on a pillow but slightly flexed forward just short of discomfort.
- The hips and knees are slightly bent.

Movement:

- Straighten the top leg by extending the knee.

Repetitions _____
Sets _____
Hold Time _____
Comments:

Do not move so far that symptoms are reproduced.

Do not hold the position like a stretch.

You should move continuously and very slowly, taking up to 5 seconds to complete 1 repetition.

This is a movement that is intended to improve the neural structure's tolerance to tension.

Form is very important. Do not perform any more repetitions if your form begins to breakdown.
